Dr. Merrill Swain is Professor Emeritus in the Department of Curriculum, Teaching and Learning at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto. She has taught and conducted research at OISE/UT for 38 years. Her interests include bilingual education (particularly French immersion education) and communicative second language learning, teaching and testing. Her present research focuses on the role of collaborative dialogue and “languaging” in second language learning within a sociocultural theory of mind framework. She was President of the American Association for Applied Linguistics in 1998-99, and is currently a member-at-large of the Executive Board of the International Association of Applied Linguistics (AILA). She is recipient of the 2003 Robert Roy Award which is given to “an outstanding Canadian second language educator who has been active in the second language professional community in teaching, research, writing and dedication to the improvement of second language teaching and learning in Canada”. She is also the recipient of the American Association for Applied Linguistics’s 2004 Distinguished Scholarship and Service Award. Dr. Swain has given talks and workshops in many parts of the world, most recently in Japan, China, Hong Kong, New Zealand, Australia, Germany, Ireland, England, Spain, and the USA. Her most recent book is one co-edited with Bygate and Skehan “Researching pedagogic tasks: Second language learning, teaching and testing” (Longman’s). Another book of interest to this audience is “Immersion education: International Perspectives” edited by Johnson and Swain (CUP). She is author of over 150 articles published in refereed journals, as well as many book chapters. She is currently writing a textbook with P. Kinnear and L. Steinman: An Introduction to sociocultural theories and second language learning and teaching (Multilingual Matters).
